The lawyers, two of them, decided that the Constitution did not require them to take the oath. Ons of them would not give an opinion, as it was a new question. They, at last, requested to be excused from taking the change.

There seemed to be an impression, however, that the oath had to be taken, or that Johnson would declare martial law, or put the City Fathers in jail. They had better take the oath. It will not hurt them. They deny that they have taken any oath inconsistent with the Constitution of the United States or the Constitution of Tennessee. The Railroad Accident in Illinois.

THE ACCIDENT. About half-past 10 o'clook, at a point distant nearly five miles from the city, while the foremost train was moving at almost lightening speed down a sloping grade, the axle of the forward truck of the first passenger coaon suddenly broke. The unusually high rate of speed, added to the great weight in the coaches, orested a powerful momentum, which hurled five of the passenger cars from the track, and Nearly one-balf of the tobacco consumed produced a complete wreck. The locomo tive, with the baggage cars, was detached from the rest of the train, and moved Skirmishing at Humansville, Mo. other oars were tumbled together promiscuously, here one oar resting on another, and there a solitary coach crushed into a thou-sand splinters. The scene that ensued was terribly heartrending. The groans of the dying, the summoning call of a soldier to his missing comrade, the sobbing of a wife or a sister over the iess of a loved companion-all centrasted strangely with the joyous and merry crowd that might have terrible loss of life had been produced. No there. time was lost, and the surgeons, assisted by the officers, instantly set about extricating the officers, instantly set about extrioating of the Mississippi passes, where some the killed and allevieting the sufferings of the oity to give the alarm, and return to the scene Orleans was momentarily expected. of the accident with a gang of men to assist in clearing the wreck. At the same time the soldiers who were unburt were set to work, and in a short time the ruins were partly oleared away, and the bodies of ten dead soldiers removed from the resting places of rebel vessels there. where death had overtaken them. short time the engine of the disabled train, that had been dispatched to the city, returned with a force of men, leaving behind, however, the corps of surgeons that had been rallled in this city to visit the spot. By superhuman efforts the wreck was cleared from the track in a short time, and, this having been accomplished, the first detachment of the regiment, consisting of companies G, C and I, started for Chicago, arriving here shortly after three o'clock yesterday morning. It was nearly seven o'clock, however, before the remaining ompanies of the regiment reached the city, bringing with them the killed and wounded. The latter are to be taken to the military hospital at Camp Douglas, where, it is needless to say, they will receive the best

Some of the poor fellows who were killed were frightfully mangled by the orash of imbers and wood-work. The three privates of company G named in the above list of killed met their death from two large iron oar-wheels which were hurled through whole length of the car. They were killed almost instantly. Walter Snell, a promis-ing member of the company, from Geneva, had both of his legs out off just above the ankle. Part of the way from Janesville he was accompanied by his young wife and mother, who bade him good-bye and left the tain at Clinton Junction. The escape of many was miraculous. Lieut. Henry Goodsell, of company G, was sitting by the side of Quartermaster Sergeant Edwards at the time the axle broke, and, on hearing the noise, attempted to follow the ocurse of the latter by jumping through the window. Edwards reached the ground, but was buried the next moment in the rules, and received injuries which will probably terminate tataily. The other was prevented from passing through the window by his sabre-scabbard, and to this alone he owes his won-

Almost every oar that was thrown from the track was broken into fragments, so great was the ocnoussion arising from the sudden stoppage of the train. The rails were torn up, and the whole scene was one of indescribable confusion. The train was moving at an extraordinary rate of speed, and to this may be ascribed one reason for the extent of the damage caused by the accident.

Hospital Steward Sharp, with six others, were found in the ditch which ran alongside the track, and which was filled with water. No bruises were found on the person of the former, and it is consequently supposed that he was stunned by the violence of the fall, and was literally drowned. He was a most exemplary young man, highly esteemed by all who associated with him, and respected for many conspicuous and noble qualities of character.

The Escape of the Nashville.

It is reported that the Nashville was loaded with a valuable cargo of cotton and naval stores. Her lights were concealed, and she was fairly abreast the Cambridge when discovered.

An officer of the Gemsbok makes the following statement in relation to the escape of the Nashville:

When the Nashville ran in on the mornng of the 28th of February last, there was only the State of Georgia on this blockade to protect three entrances-which it is impossible for one steamer to do. Three days after the Nashville had run in, this vessel arrived here from Hampton Reads, evidence of the demoralized condition of and we found to eur mortification such to be the case. their allegiance. At a recent meeting of the loyal oitizens of Jacksonville, on the 20th, it was declared that no State has a constitutional right to separate from the United States, and the act of secession adopted by Florida is void, and is in conflict with the Constitution; never having been submitted to the people for ratification, they protest against all acts of the Convention depriving them of their rights as itizens of the United States.

They also disavowed the despotism which denied them the freedom of speech and of the press, and forced contributions of money, labor, and enlistments. They recommended that a convention be called forthwith to organize a State government and that the United States Government be requested to keep a sufficient military force to keep order and protect persons and property.

Washington, March 29 -Herald's Dispatch -The following, dated Mannassas, March 29th, is received:

The telegraph lines are completed to Warrenton Junotion. Last night, five cannon, buried by the rebels one mile and a half beyond the Junotion, were found. It appears that the car containing them broke down, and the rebels buried them near the track. Three of them

BALTIMORE, March 30 .- The rebels burat he railroad bridge between Newbern and Beaufort, but it was in progress of repair, and the road would soon be in operation between the places, so far as our informants knew, all of whom came from Newbern, and had not been to Beaufort. There was no destruction of property at the latter place, and a large majority of the citizens remained quietly in their homes. On the arrival of the Federal forces perfect order reigned at Newbern, and a number of citizens had re-turned to the place. Gen. Foster was Military Governor of the oity.

The rebels were believed to be in strong force towards Kingston, 35 miles on the road to Goldsboro, and their scouls fre-quently appeared in the vicinty of Newbern. The expedition to Washington was successful. It consisted of about 1,000 men, with an escort of gunboats. Two companies of the 22d Massachusetts landed and took the place. most recent improvements, are nearly ubiseless when in operation, rnn with the greatest ease and rapldity, and are better adapted for general purposes and iamfly use than any other. They are not liable to get out of order, are exceedingly simple, and are made expressly for real practical utility; they do every variety of sewing, from the finest woven tissue to the heaviest wooten goods, both tailoring and fine leather work.
Any person may learn to operate them lu a very short time. me. The great difficulty with all other old-style Machines The great difficulty with all other old-style Machines is too much complication, requiring so much constant adjustment, and such an amount of mechanical skill and ingenuity to use them to advantage, as to render them of little comparative value.

But the Sewing Machines manufactured by Greenman & True are not liable to these objections, as any persou, on even a moment's examination, will readily discover. They will do more and botter work than any other Machine ever offered to the public, making the most beautiful lock-stitch, allke on both sides. Send for an oft-hand specimen of sewing upon any material you wish, and you will then see how it is done.
